ARKANSAS RIVER IS ON A RAMPAGE

FIVE THOUSAND MEN WORK TO SAVE PROPERTY IN COLORADO TOWN.

PUEBLO WAS THREATENED

River Came Up Seven Feet in Short Time—Trains Are All Delayed in District.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Pueblo, Colo., Aug. 18.—This city was roused at three o'clock this morning by a warning given from the upper Arkansas valley that there was grave danger of a flood within an hour and five thousand persons were upon the streets working like beavers to remove the stocks of merchandise and household effects out of danger. The work proved needless in most cases, as although the river rose six or eight feet above the normal there was no flood to the immediate vicinity of the city.

Great damage was reported, however, in the neighborhood of Canon City, forty miles from here, where the Arkansas overflowed its banks. In the Royal Gorge the river is reported to have risen twenty feet, washing out several miles of track on the Denver and Rio Grande railway and causing other damage. Telegraph communication through the gorge and with the upper valley is cut off. Denver, Colo., Aug. 18.—Fully a thousand tourists, a large majority from the east, were tied up today in Denver and the Grand passenger trains at Pueblo, Salida and Grand Junction as a result of floods in the Arkansas river, following cloudbursts in the mountains yesterday.

NEW LINES WILL BE DRAWN SOON

STATE POLITICIANS BEGIN SLATE MAKING IN MILWAUKEE.

COOK AND CONNOR COMBINE

Cook for Governor, Connor for United States Senator, is Said to Be Bargain.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 18.—S. A. Cook for governor and W. D. Connor for senator. That is the plan now on foot, according to talk heard on Tuesday among politicians. In line with this it can be said that Mr. Connor was represented in the republican house meeting. Furthermore, it is pointed out that Mr. Connor gave Mr. Cook effectual if quiet support in his candidacy for senator last year; therefore it would not be at all surprising if a combine such as given should be formed. That there is something more on foot than the mere attempt to nominate Mr. Cook for governor is the belief of every politician who has his ear to the ground in this year of our Lord. Twine Plant Up Again. That it spells trouble ahead for other candidates no one doubts. Mr. Cook is strong in the agricultural districts of the state. In fact, one of his warmest friends said on Tuesday that the Society of Equity would back his candidacy. If it does, it will bring another element into a political war, which has too many ingredients already. The Society of Equity is already campaigning for a binder twine plant and will endeavor to elect as many as possible who will pledge themselves to vote for such a plant. It would naturally follow that if Mr. Cook be supported by the members of the society he would have to give them assurances that he would be for the plant, if he has not done so already. No Stephenson Help. It is a pretty kettle of fish and it looks much as though there were more bones than meat in the stew for some time. In case the Cook-Connor combine is made, friends of other candidates would have their work cut out for them. Mr. Cook alone will prove a formidable candidate owing to his strength among the farmers, as shown in his campaign for senator. Then, too, many will vote for him for governor who would not give him their vote for United States senator. That the candidacy of Mr. Cook will not be rebuffed by the friends of Senator Stephenson is not open to argument. After the action of Mr. Cook and his friends during the inception and progress of the legislative investigation last winter it is not likely that any Stephenson man will say awake nights thinking how to further the candidacy of the Senator man. In fact, it was charged in Madison last winter that emissaries of Mr. Cook were instrumental in starting the investigation. This was denied by Mr. Cook and his lieutenants at the time, but the denials never were accepted at par among members of the legislature. McGovern of Defeat. It is believed that the early inception of the present movement is due to a desire to force the hand of the Stephenson side, and also head off any prospective candidates who have been talked of in the last few weeks. There is another side to it. Mr. Cook coming into the field may force Senator La Follette to adopt F. R. McGovern as his gubernatorial candidate. Mr. Cook is too strong to warrant the nomination of a candidate so little known to the southern and eastern part of the state as Senator Thomas Morris, who is believed to be Senator La Follette's choice for the nomination. It will be necessary for that wing of the party to put up their strongest man. It may be that the senator will prefer to choose defeat rather than accept Mr. McGovern, who, he is well aware, would be more amenable to reason, once he were seated in the executive chair in Madison. Now Considered Candidate. Whatever comes of Mr. Cook's candidacy, he will have the enjoyment of attiring up a bigger turmoil in a shorter time than any politician in the state has been able to do in many years. The committee appointed at the republican house meeting to notify him of the action taken and urge him to become a candidate for governor, it is said from Neenah, presented the resolutions adopted at the meeting, on Tuesday. Mr. Cook is said to have desired a little time to consider the matter. This will deceive no one. Mr. Cook will be looked upon as a candidate, whether his announcement is made this week or next month. It may further be said that there will be a meeting of his followers in Milwaukee during the state fair week, when his campaign will be launched and arrangements made for opening headquarters.

A Quiz For Men

IF ready-made clothing fits just as well as made-to-measure, why do men who are always well dressed wear made-to-measure clothing? If made-to-measure clothing costs only a trifle more than ready-made, why isn't the appearance, the better cloth, the lasting quality worth a dollar or two more? Doesn't every man know a ready-made suit when he spots it? Then if the made-to-measure clothing is to be so much preferred why don't you get one instead of the other? You don't believe we can do it for $15 or $20, or so. Is that it? Try us and see. Our new fall line contains over 500 All Wool patterns to select from at prices ranging from $16 to $45, suit or overcoat.

One Hundred and Twenty-five Members of Norwegian Church Have Outing.

One hundred and twenty-five of the members of the Norwegian church and Sunday school went down to Yost's park this morning for the annual picnic of the society held there today. Later cars conveyed others who were unable to get to 10:15, so that in all there were about one hundred and sixty present at the festivities. A fine program of races, games and a baseball game afforded amusement for the crowd all day. Extensive preparations for satisfying the wants of the inner man had been made and at noon a delicious picnic dinner was served. The picnicers returned in two special cars this evening.

DONALD PERSCH.

New York City—The pathetic figure of Donald Persch, now confined in the Tombs in connection with the August Helms copper deal investigation, is attracting unusual interest. Mr. Persch's attorneys claim that he is the tool of men higher up, who will suffer before the investigation is over.

Mr. Persch is a young man. After leaving Harvard University he took up note brokerage business on Wall Street and was supposed to be making a remarkable success of this up until the time of the Helms investigation, when it was found that securities which Helms had put up as collateral for loans had been sold outright without permission of principals. Persch was a man whom the authorities suspected of the fraudulent transactions.

He is being held in jail until he can secure $50,000 bonds or stand trial.

Intellectual Competition. Where intellectual vitality is pervasive, intellectual rivalry is natural and inevitable. $4 A WEEK —OR— $10 A WEEK Which Shall It Be?

A general education is desirable, a polite education is a luxury; but a practical, everyday business education is a necessity in these days when business principles are supreme in the great work of life. An education that will qualify a young person to the work that the world wants done is an education that pays. In these days of large business enterprises, work of a high order is demanded of every employee. Such work demands the most thorough preparation.

There are some good schools and others that are good for nothing. The latter class are those that turn out the stenographers and bookkeepers whose training is so imperfect and impractical as to fit them for only minor positions in the business world.

The Southern Wisconsin Business College is Janesville's Modern Commercial School

Our courses of study in each department are thorough, complete and practical. Our standards of promotion and graduation are the highest. That's why a diploma from us is such an asset of value—it represents a high standard of scholarship; not that a student has attended a school six months or a year. Because of this standard which is recognized by the University of Wisconsin,

Our Graduates Secure and Hold the Best Positions

You will find our young men and women everywhere holding the position of chief clerks, private secretaries managers of departments in the largest and best business concerns of the country. The secret of their great success is their thorough training. We could fill several pages of the Gazette with letters from our graduates all testifying to this fact.

Our Last Four Graduates Were Placed at $40 to $75 Per Month. Every Graduate is Placed or Tuition is Refunded.

Such assurances are not possible in other schools which are known not 20 miles from the place where they are located. Our school is the most extensively advertised school in the state. A large business firm of Chicago recently applied to us to supply them with a bookkeeper and stenographer, learning of the success of our young men and women in the employ of other firms in his own city. TO FREERICH THIEF;
CASE SENSATIONALDENEEN AND PARDON BOARD
ASKED TO LIBERATE MRS.
ROMADKA.

WAS A MILLIONAIRE'S WIFE

Committed Burglaries with Aid of Negro Crook and Lived Jekyll-Hyde Life in Chicago—Had Startling Career in Crime.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—After two years' imprisonment in the penitentiary at Joliet, Mrs. Evelyn C. Romadka, perpetrator of a string of daring burglaries and former wife of Charles L. Romadka, a multi-millionaire of Milwaukee, probably will be released next month. Her case was one of the most sensational in the annals of the Chicago police department.

Another chapter was added to the story of the world, life of Mrs. Romadka, which is even more fantastic than that of Horneum's fiction character "Raffles," when it became known that friends of her girlhood days, of Fond du Lac and Oakbrook, Wis., had petitioned Gov. Deneen and the Illinois board of pardons asking for the liberation of the former school-teacher and multi-millionaire's wife.

Father Will Spend Fortune. Undaunted by the wealthy Romadka family's refusal to assist in gaining the release of the woman, whose prison confinement has undermined her health, her aged father, P. J. Calne, who owns a large rubber plantation in Mexico, has declared he will spend his entire fortune in his daughter's behalf.

Maurice McKenna of Fond du Lac, a well-known Wisconsin lawyer, has been retained in the case and has been granted an opportunity to make a plea for Mrs. Romadka before the board of pardons at the session in September.

Besides the Wisconsin petition a letter from the state's attorney's office has been forwarded to Gov. Deneen and the board declaring no objection will be made to the release of the society woman burglar.

Assistant State's Attorney Clifford G. Roe, who prosecuted Mrs. Romadka, with the sanction of State's Attorney Wayman, sent the following letter to the board of pardons at the request of Attorney McKenna:

Petition to Pardon Board. To the Honorable Board of Pardons, State of Illinois:

Gentlemen: In the case of the people of the state of Illinois vs. Evelyn C. Romadka, I represented the prosecution in all the preliminary hearings and aided in the preparation of the evidence against Mrs. Romadka.

Mrs. Romadka has always had my sympathy as a woman who was led astray by romantic delusions, although I know that she was guilty of all the charges preferred against her, still, in my opinion, she has paid fully the penalty for her wrong doing.

I recommend to your honorable board that she be released on parole from the Illinois state penitentiary. Yours very respectfully, (Signed) CLIFFORD G. ROE, Assistant State's Attorney, Punishment is Sufficient.

"I believe Mrs. Romadka has been punished sufficiently by her confinement in the penitentiary during the last two years," said Attorney Roe. "She is a young and delicate woman and longer confinement might prove fatal. While I know she is guilty of all the charges brought against her, I think, as I said in my letter, she was led astray by romantic delusions."

Mrs. Romadka's arrest and conviction was one of the sensations of Chicago and Milwaukee business and society circles and cleared away the mystery surrounding the burglary of a score of wealthy homes.

Mrs. Romadka had been living in an apartment at the Victoria hotel and was receiving a large allowance from her husband. While at dinner with a prominent board of trade man a diamond bracelet which she was wearing was identified as one stolen from Mrs. C. E. Beck, 5560 South Park avenue. Mrs. Romadka was arrested. When taken to the detective bureau she asserted the jewelry had been given her by a "Ralph Smith." On learning of the wealth of her husband she was released and the police started a search for the mysterious man.

When several other thefts were traced to her Mrs. Romadka said her first theft occurred at a ball in Milwaukee tendered Prince Henry of Prussia, at which the nobleman declared Miss Gene Dolan, Mrs. Romadka's future stepmother-in-law was the most beautiful woman he had ever seen.

KILLS COUSIN; ATTACKS AUNT.

Maryland Murder Mystery Cleared by the Slayer's Confession.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 18.—Oliver Herman Harris, who some days ago acknowledged having murdered his aunt, Mrs. Clara Harris, has confessed that on July 22 he murdered his cousin, Hanson Poole, whose decomposed body was found last Saturday in the cabin in which he lived alone near Rockville. Harris said he took two quarts of whiskey and $52 in money which Poole had.

Utilizing his position, and in need of money with which to get away, his thoughts turned to his aunt, Mrs. Harris. He knew that she kept money at her home, but took it with her whenever she left there. Sending her word that a relative was ill and needed her, Harris waylaid her in a field and almost killed her.

MARSHAL KILLS SAFE-BLOWER.

Sumner, Ill., Officer Slays Bandit in a Running Battle.

Sumner, Ill., Aug. 18.—A robber named John Mitchell was shot dead by Marshal Skaggs in a running fight, after Mitchell and two confederates had blown open the safe of the post office and taken $60 in cash.

Mitchell's body was found in an alley with a bullet hole in the forehead.

Officers are searching the surrounding country for the other two robbers.

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 18.—Palmer Wolbing, cashier of the Kiefer bank, who was wounded Tuesday night by robbers who attempted to rob the bank at Kiefer and killed Marshal Inford, died last night. All trace of the murderers seems to have been lost. A reward of $1,000 has been offered.

RAGING OCEAN IS CHEATED
—OF PREY BY HEROIC WORK

Life-Savers Rescue Seven from Stranded Ship—One Man Still Adrift on a Raft.

New York, Aug. 18.—The raging sea was cheated of seven human lives as they prey when the gallant Long Island life savers rescued seven of the crew from the stranded schooner Arlington off Long Beach and added another victory to their long list of battles against the ocean's fury.

The eighth member of the crew, Madden Pierson, a Swede, put off from the schooner on a raft with the hope of reaching shore with a line, was swept out to sea by the tide and lost sight of. It is believed that he perished. It was at first reported that Pierson had been picked up five miles to the south near Rockaway beach, but this was not borne out.

The rescue from the schooner was witnessed by cheering guests of the Nassau hotel at Long Beach and hundreds of cottagers. And strangely, the hotel was indirectly responsible for the vessel's plight, for Capt. Ira Small after having lost his bearings, mistook the glimmering lights in the structure for those of a liner in mid-ocean and thus misled, ran aground. The schooner, heavily laden with anthracite bound from this port for Mayport, Fla., struck a sand bar 300 yards off shore. Pounded by a heavy sea while a terrific easterly gale was blowing, she began to yield immediately.

Boats and life preservers went with the first crash and the masts, which bent to the gale and appeared likely to go down at any moment, seemed an unsafe shelter to the captain. He and the crew accordingly climbed out on the bowsprit.

The life savers worked frantically but in vain trying to shoot a line to the wreck. The high seas and wind made this impossible, but perseverance won the day. After six futile attempts they succeeded in getting a surf boat through the breakers to the lee of the wreck and the rescue of the imperiled sailors followed.

AUTOMOBILE RACER INJURED.

Mechanic Hurt on Way to Indianapolis' New Speed Course.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 18.—Clifford Litterell of Dayton, O., a mechanic attached to the Stoddard-Dayton automobile racing crew, was probably fatally injured when he fell under the wheels of one of his group of cars, on the way from a downtown garage to the motor speedway to prepare for the races of to-morrow, Friday and Saturday.

The cars were proceeding in file at a rapid gait, when Litterell, who was riding in one of them, jumped out to return to the garage for a tool. He stumbled and fell before a car following him and it passed over him crushing his chest. He was taken to the Methodist hospital.

All of the drivers and their assistants that are to man the 65 cars entered in the national races have arrived and established their quarters at the speedway. The course is roaring today with the "tuning up" of the racing machines.

Doverly, Mass., Aug. 18.—The assistant secretary of the treasury, Mr. Norton, arrived in Doverly to-day to take up some financial matters with the president. The question of the issue of Panama bonds may also be taken up.

BATTLE IN BOSTON
RAGING FIERCELYCITY IN PERIL AS TROOPS IN BLOODLESS WAR MAKE ATTACK.

ARMY OF REDS IN DANGER

Blues Under Gen. Bliss Press Forward in Fierce Assault on Pew's Men and To-Day's Battle May Decide the Conflict.

Boston, Aug. 18.—Gen. Tasker H. Bliss' army of the Red this morning began a desperate attack on the Blue troops commanded by Gen. William A. Paw, Jr., who are defending Boston from invasion. The battle is raging fiercely and before night the city may be in the hands of the enemy. It is feared the city will fall.

The two armies were less than a dozen miles apart when hostilities were renewed this morning. Gen. Paw's quarters were still at Robins Pond, within six miles of Bridgewater, while Gen. Bliss had made a material advance from a point eight miles southeast of Middleboro, to Eddyville, which is some eight miles northeast of Middleboro.

Reveals Plan of Attack.

From the general direction of the movements of Gen. Bliss and his army and the strength of his command, the plan which he intends to follow to capture Boston, is apparently revealed for the first time. This is to annihilate Gen. Paw's extreme left and to pass that end with a comparatively clear road to Boston. But for the fact that the hour of one o'clock, when both armies cease operations for the day, arrived a trifle too soon, the plan would have been eminently successful yesterday. As it is, unless Gen. Paw can support his second brigade of infantry, comprising the Fifth, Eighth and Ninth regiments and Battery B, under command of Col. William H. Donovan, which is the Blues' left wing, by all his cavalry and his artillery, which are in the center some six miles away from the scene and thereby hold the roads to-day until his first brigade can be rushed from the right, he risks defeat.

Movements Well Executed.

Over at the extreme left of the Blue line, three regiments named are facing practically the entire Red army. Gen. Bliss' southwestward movement was one of determination on a settled plan, with which every organization was apparently familiar. In addition it was clearly executed and strategic and gave evidence that the Red scouts had fully posted Gen. Bliss on the position of the Blues. In the Reds' advance there never was a sign of hesitation when the Blues' outposts were encountered and then either captured or driven in.

How expertly and scientifically this was accomplished was best illustrated at Middleboro Green. Here Maj. Charles H. Cutler of the Blue army with three skeleton companies of the Eighth Infantry was encountered and rendered non-combatant in quick time. While the Connecticut squadron of cavalry engaged the Blues' front, Maj. Grierson of the Reds, with his three troops of the Tenth United States cavalry (colored) dismounted and acting as infantry and supported by two machine guns, turned the right flank of the Blues, while at the same moment Maj. Brigham, with the New York cavalry, executed the same movement on the left.

If it had been actual warfare it is believed that there would not have been a Blue soldier left half an hour after the engagement had begun. The suspension of hostilities last night brought no relief as the rain continued to pour down in torrents. The shelter tents of both armies were quickly soaked through while the ditches dug around them filled with water and overflowed into the tents.

Outside the precarious condition of the left wing of the defending army, the feature of the day was the repulse of the enemy in its rear attack on Boston. Two companies of the Red army, numbering about 200 men, were landed early in the morning by the transport Sumner near the Ocean house, Swampscott, and after a "bloody" encounter were driven off.

Wireless telegraphy figured in the movements. The signal corps of the National Guard of Washington, brought the wireless telegraph outfit to the front of Gen. Bliss' Red line and kept headquarters well posted on the proceedings at the front.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 18.—Gov. Brown has signed the recent act of the Georgia legislature which prohibits the use by negro secret societies of the insignia, ritualistic work, grips, etc., of orders composed of whites.

It legislates out of existence the negro organization of Elks and Knights of Pythias, but the negro Masonic and Odd Fellows organizations may continue in operation by changing their badges, rituals, grips, etc., as the latter have names slightly different from the white Masonic and Odd Fellows organizations.

PROFITABLE SELFISHNESS

Importance of a Mutual Understanding between Telephone Subscribers and the Company

The Wisconsin Telephone Company desires to impress its customers and the public generally with the practical importance of a mutual understanding.

The telephone business has elements of breadth and interdependence that exist in such great measure in few other lines and the officers of the Company believe that a policy of frankness and fair dealing will secure the confidence of the public.

It pays a telephone company's stockholders to have its managers and employees polite. It pays to give the best service possible and thereby avoid complaints. It pays to have the public understand that this is the Company's policy. It pays the public to know these things and to use the telephone in good temper because the subscriber's end of the line exerts a very great influence upon the character of the service.

The Company can give better service and obtain better results if its customers feel friendly. Subscribers can save time and can contribute in an important way to good service if they are disposed to do their part in good spirit and give the Company credit for the kind of business sense that seeks friends and not enemies.

The Wisconsin Telephone Company wants to do everything possible to furnish satisfactory service to the public and subscribers are invited to report any irregularity or shortcoming that may occur, to the end that the cause may be removed and the service improved.—Telephone Talk 9 2.

Beekeeping in America.

Bees were unknown to the Indians, but they were brought over from England only a few years after the landing of the pilgrim fathers. It was more than two centuries after the first white invasion of New England, however, before modern beekeeping began. The industry of the present day dates from the invention of the movable-frame hive by Langstroth in 1852.

Save 1-2 to 2-3 of Coal Bills
Here's telling how: Cheapest illustration shows furnace without stack yields as much heat as casing, cut away to show how coal is highest price anthracite. Coal is fed from below and all the fire is on top. Smoke and gases wasted in all other furnaces or boilers must pass through flues, are consumed and turned into UNDERFEED heat units. Ashes are few and are removed by shaking the grate bars as in ordinary furnaces.
Proofs? We can furnish bushels. The UNDERFEED has made good in the frozen North and mellowed the occasional cold snaps in the sunny South. And saving?
Dr. C. W. Meyer, 978 Main Street, Rockford, Ill., in the Rockford Register-Gazette of May 1st, O. K.'s this statement: "During the winter of 1906-07 Dr. Meyer paid FOUR times as much for hard coal as it cost him to heat the same building with an Underfeed furnace in 1907-08, using soft coal."
As the Rockford Register-Gazette well says: "It is not what a plant costs in the first place, but what goes through it that makes it expensive." We want to send you our Underfeed Warm Air Furnace Booklet, and a lot of cheerful facsimile testimonials of appreciation.

The thirty-ninth annual reunion of the members of the Thirtieth Wisconsin Infantry Regiment was held in this city today at the court house. The regular meeting of the association to which all the surviving members of the regiment belong, was held this afternoon at the court house in the circuit court rooms, but old soldiers began arriving in the city before the middle of the forenoon, and groups of them could be seen chatting and telling stories together.

The veterans came mostly from southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois. Beloit, Milton, Whitewater and other towns are represented and there was quite a delegation arrived from Rockford.

This noon, the old soldiers, their wives and daughters, enjoyed a dinner served by the ladies of the W. R. C. in the rooms used by W. R. C. in the court house.

This afternoon, they congregated at the court house, and about two o'clock the business meeting of the association was held. President Elmer Norcross of Janesville, presiding. The most important business to be brought up was the selection of the new officers for the coming year.

Notable among the visitors is Harry M. Plator, of Rockford, who was to take part in this afternoon's program. Mr. Plator is one of the veterans from the Rockford Post, and was expected to give several musical numbers, among them selections on the banjo. He is a member of Co. H, 11th Illinois regiment and Post No. 1 of the G. A. R. He is Post National Aid to the G. A. TOOK HORSE TO GET EVEN WITH EMPLOYER

Slavonian, Who Had Been Working on the James York Farm in Center, Arrested This Afternoon.

James Young, a farmer living in the town of Center, and a Slavonian whom he claims to have lived for six months at $5 a week and who has evidently been working for him about four months, were unable to reach an agreement yesterday as to the amount of money coming to the latter. Officer John Brown was accordingly called upon to adjust the difficulty, but he found it impossible to either understand or make himself understood by the foreigner who speaks an unintelligible broken lingo. That Young owed him $15, had advanced $4 of the amount, and still owed him $15 was his contention, and he refused to accept $11 and went away muttering vengeance. While Mr. Young was in town this morning the Slavonian, whose name sounds like John Galton, visited the farm and stole a large black horse from the barn. Though he stopped and tied the animal to a tree a ways down the road, the little and other neighbors were afraid to molest him, claiming that he kept a large knife handy as he lay down under a tree. Afterwards he came to town and leaving the horse at the edge of the city walked towards the railroad hotel. Officer John Brown arrested him on Mineral Point avenue but at a late hour this afternoon the nag had not been recovered.

It is probable that within the near future he will again be called upon to fill an important position with one of the great railway systems.

MAUDE NICHOLSON WEDS BELOIT MAN

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Nicholson Married This Afternoon.

A pretty home wedding was celebrated this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Nicholson, when their daughter, Miss Maude, became the bride of Troy P. Bond of Beloit. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. C. Denison in the presence of about seventy-five friends and relatives of the young people. Miss Leah Rowe of this city was the bridesmaid and Robert Lee of Pelee, Wis., acted as best man. The wedding took place in the parlor of the home, which was handsomely decorated with artificial green and golden glow. The bridegroom took the bride under a canopy formed of white ribbons suspended from a wedding hall made of the greens to the decorations on the side walls. Banns were read before the bride and groom were united. The bride was attired in white silk, while the bridesmaid wore a tan-colored gown of the same material. Following the wedding a reception was held at the home. Mr. and Mrs. Bond will leave for a wedding trip to Chicago and will spend two weeks at Lake Keweenaw. After October 1st they will start housekeeping in their new home in Beloit.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Nicholson, is a graduate of the Janesville high school, and is popular among the young people of society in this city. The groom is a highly-esteemed young man, employed as a draughtsman in the Pathefrank-Morse company's plant at Beloit. Their many friends extend to them the best wishes.

The bride has been the guest of honor at a number of showers recently, but besides the gifts received, these young people are the recipients of many beautiful presents from other friends.

Out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bond of Milwaukee, the parents of the young man; Mr. and Mrs. James Dollar and daughter, Blanche, and Mrs. Fred Van Riesen, of Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bittel, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Martin, Miss Ethel Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin and daughter, Nellie, all of Beloit.

A MOST UNIQUE DISPLAY.

A Model Lozier Racer Automobile, Such as Driven by B. Oldfield, Made Entirely of Saleable Goods Taken From Stock, Shown in Window of H. L. McNamara Co.

A window display that is attracting favorable comment from everyone who sees it is shown in the window of the H. L. McNamara Hardware Co., on West Milwaukee St. It is a model of the world famous Lozier racer, winner of the 10,000 mile endurance contest. The car is made entirely of saleable goods taken from stock. The car assembled is made up as follows: The tires are made of 5 ft. rubber hose, the wheels are made from small wheels taken from a wheelbarrow, the radiator hood is a 100-pound galvanized flour barrel, the front light is a two burner kerosene lamp, the back light is a large hotel lantern, two reversed oil lamps answer for dash lights, hay knives and a spray pump make levers that would answer the purpose of a much more costly car. Two small sleeve boards make the front end of running boards. A family scale upside down is an excellent speedometer. A Kalkreuth watch shows the time of day no matter where the car may be. A rubber hose is attached to the back for an extra tire in case of accident. A broom-cooker cushion makes a useful bag. House numbers attached in their right places tell the license number. A mop stick and wire clothes line constitute a steering gear to keep the car running straight. The driver's back is made up of a hunting suit, with a punching bag for a face, goggles for eyes, mop cloth for hair and the whole covered with an outing hat. Around the car are set several signs. The first reads speed limit ten miles. The next one says: Wanted, at once, chauffeur to drive this auto; must be competent. Another tells you, No, we do not sell those cars; you will have to see our local talent for that. Yours for business, H. L. McNamara.

The display was gotten up by Mr. W. F. Henning who has recently joined the McNamara people, coming from Janesville where he was with the Phillips Gross Hardware Co. as an expert window trimmer.

Mr. Henning says watch our window. We will have more displays equally as good as this one.

LOEB TO SUE UNION HEAD FOR VEILED INSINUATION

Editor of Publication in Which "Audit Story" Appeared, Will Explain Stillings Matter.

Washington, Aug. 18.—William Loeb, Jr., collector of the port at New York and former secretary to the president of the United States, has threatened to sue Samuel De Nedrey, editor of a local trade union paper, in a letter to De Nedrey Collector Loeb vigorously protests against an article recently published in the paper stating that Mr. Loeb contemplates appointing Charles A. Stillings, former public printer, to a position of trust in the New York customs service, and which concluded with the question: "Who was at the head of the audit system?"

It is understood Mr. Loeb took offense at what he believes to be a veiled insinuation that he was interested in the audit system which was inaugurated at the government printing office by Mr. Stillings, and which, ultimately, was responsible primarily for the resignation of Mr. Stillings as public printer.

Mr. Loeb intimates that it is his intention to carry the matter into the courts.

Mr. De Nedrey says he was absent from the city when the article appeared in his paper, and does not know how it got into print. In the next issue of his paper he says there will be an explanation, which, in his opinion, will satisfy Mr. Loeb. "If it does not," he added, "I shall govern myself according to the circumstances."

At the time of Mr. Stillings' dismissal as public printer Mr. De Nedrey took an active part editorially in discussing conditions at the big printery. He knows of no hands, he says, for an allegation that Mr. Loeb was connected with the audit system, and even no reason to criticize him for his attitude toward organized labor.

The older Mrs. Thaw accompanied her son to the asylum and then went to Fishkill, where she has rented a house, so that she may be near him and visit him as often as the regulations permit. Thaw is to have all the privileges that were accorded him during the first three months of his stay here.

New York.—In the office of the New York Herald there hung a sign not many weeks ago which read: "If you want to find out who's boss here start something."

An inquisitive reporter from the west who during his two years on the paper had not seen the man who dominated everything in the office did start something, and back from Paris came a cablegram, "Fire Smith." And Smith found out that James Gordon Bennett, owner, proprietor and editor, who does not come to New York office more than once in two years, was boss just the same. Every detail of his management comes up to Mr. Bennett.

Each morning he is up early and lays out the plans for the day and sends them by cable to the New York office, where these details are followed out implicitly. Each day from the New York office is mailed an edition of the Herald to Mr. Bennett, with the name of the writer of each story attached to the bottom so that he can tell just which men are and which men are not producing results. Mr. Bennett is a stickler for detailed and especially for the neatness of appearance of his staff.

James Gordon Bennett was born in New York 67 years ago. He presents his gray hair and mustache and a military carriage. He inherited the Herald and has made it one of the great American journals. He is especially proud of the New York Evening Telegram after he had inherited the Herald.

Her Secret Resentment.

A parson was sent for by a dying parishioner, who had always sternly refused to have anything to do with him before. He hurried to her bedside, found her in a most contrite mood and made the best of his opportunities in a long extemporaneous prayer, ending with a sonorous "Amen!" The last word made her sit up with sudden energy. "Aye," she exclaimed, "that's it! It's a' for men and now for us poor women in this world!"

Working for Oneself.

Business is a great educator—working for others often cripples the born capacity and renders the individual a mere working machine. The man who works for himself unfolds his powers and grows. His faculties are all alert and every resource taxed to the utmost to bring about best results. The struggle to get on develops the best that is in manhood—these are the points in favor of business life, but they are offset by many risks.

The Home.

Home and home life must never become commonplace. The little surprises, the remembrance of the birthday, the unexpected treat, the pleasure earned for one by the sacrifice of another—all these belong under our head of spiritual exercises. Nor is there any scene of our life which so demands such exercise as this familiar scene of home, which has to be recast every day.—Edward Everett Hale.

In the Monterey, Mexico, Road Race, July 26th, two Model "T" roadsters were entered. They finished first and second, defeating a Peerless a Studebaker, four Buicks, a Maxwell and a Dayton. These cars were entered and driven by the owners, not by professionals, and the race was over thirty-six miles of country roads and hills. The second Ford was twenty minutes ahead of the next competitor.

At Baton Rouge, La., on July 27th, in a two mile match race, a Model "T" owned by Mr. Fred Perkins defeated a Buick 10 owned by Mr. E. H. S. Moorman. Each was a stock car driven by its owner, and this race was on a circular track.

In the New York-Seattle Race a Ford Model "T" stock car was not finished, but all the way across. The same car is on the way back, being driven by the same men who won the race. These are factory men whose names are absolutely unknown to fame except for their connection with the race. When they get back to Detroit they will resume their old jobs in the factory, for Ford does not maintain a racing team.

Mr. Ford entered a car in the Indiana Road Race, believing it to be a strictly stock car race. The entrance money, $500.00, was paid. The car was withdrawn and the entry money forfeited because of the interpretation certain other entrants placed on the meaning of a stock car. According to Mr. Ford a stock car is a car built according to catalog specifications. To build ten cars so as to enter one in a race appeared to him as being unfair, unsportsmanlike and underhanded, hence the withdrawal of the Model "T."

But the best of competition that directly affects every automobile buyer and must interest him is the test of every day service for endurance, long life and economy of maintenance. The real aim in view when the Model "T" was designed was to perfect a car that could be economically maintained for a longer than ordinary length of time. That it wins in races is a result of its excellence in design and construction.

There isn't a four cylinder car made that will go as many miles on as little gasoline. There isn't a car made that is as easy on tires. There isn't a car made that costs so little to keep in repair and there isn't a four cylinder car that comes to contain these facts. Light weight does it. The Model "T" weighs 1,325 lbs. per H. P. The majority of other cars weigh from 85 to 100 lbs. The finest type of passenger engine weighs 53.8 lbs. per H. P., while the corresponding freight type weighs 87.5 lbs. Surely that proves Ford to be right in weight.

Deliveries on 1910 cars right now. The factory is shipping over 450 cars every week, all 1910 cars, duplicates of the New York-Seattle winner. Why not select an open car now, touring car, tourabout, or roadster, and when the weather changes get a closed body and convert your car into a coupe or a town car or a limousine? The expense is nominal, the labor limited to about an hour's time. Call or phone and arrange for a demonstration. There is a surprise in store for you.

Mr. Dwight will have the biggest fight of his life on his hands and it will be up to him more than any other individual to block the insurgent movement which is organized under the head of the "anti-free raw material faction."

Congressman Dwight is in the prime of life, being just 50 years old. His experience in congress and his immense popularity on the Republican side gives him a prestige in the approaching contest.

Speaking of the insurgent movement, Mr. Dwight said he was not ready to estimate the strength of this element.

The general belief is that should free raw material be reported from the conference committee, backed up by the Republican leaders, including Representatives Payne and Spencer Cannon, that it will be passed over the heads of the insurgents.

EARL OF GRANARD.

London, Aug. 17.-According to reports, the Earl of Granard is to be appointed viceroy of Ireland to succeed the Earl of Aberdeen. The latter, it is said, intends resigning owing to dissatisfaction over his administration which has pleased neither Ireland nor the Liberal party in England. It is known that there has been friction between Lord Aberdeen and the king on different occasions, originally arising out of the scandal concerning the theft of the jewels of the Order of St. Patrick from Dublin castle. On the other hand, Countess Aberdeen has

She continued calling for help until she finally was heard and rescued.

The peacock was "disfigured."

THE LAST GREAT SPECIAL OFFER APPEARS TODAY

Double Votes Allowed During Next Sixteen Days—Opens Thursday, August 19—YOUR LAST CHANCE—Full Particulars

Should be Read Carefully—The Pace is Growing Hot.

Home Stretch of Tug-of-War Watched by Thousands—Candidates Working With a Will.

Yesterday was certainly the banner day, thus far, in this great "contest of the hour." Thousands of votes were polled, and the office force was rushed from early morning until eight o'clock at night waiting upon the contestants and their friends. Many took advantage of this special offer, and the special ballot will be mailed before Saturday, Aug. 21 to contestants entitled to same.

As this great special offer has proven so popular among the contestants, and just to add a little more fire and dash to the event, the management has decided to extend another special offer, greater than the first, as follows:

Beginning tomorrow at 8 a. m.,
The Gazette will run another special offer. This offer will be the best and also the last offer during the contest, and every contestant should take advantage of it, as it might be the means of winning the prize you are after. This offer is limited to meet with the approval of every contestant who is desirous of winning one of the beautiful Newman Bros. pianos.
Extra votes will be allowed on all daily subscriptions, old or new.

Candidates who are holding ballots should bring them in to the management during the next sixteen days, you may be defeated by a very narrow margin.

On this page of this paper will be found full announcement of this offer. The scale upon which the votes will be based on all subscriptions is outlined in the advertisement. Read it over carefully.

This is "your last chance," and candidates should take advantage of this special offer. Votes issued by subscriptions to the Daily Gazette will be increased just one hundred per cent. This is your chance to catch the leaders. Those who fail to get in every available subscription might lose that piano or diamond ring. But 16 days more remain in this great natured tug-of-war and it is imperatively that those who desire to win should devote all their time to the securing of subscriptions and votes issued thereon.

This will truly be the bargain period of The Gazette's great contest.
By a little extra effort, enough votes may be secured to build up an impregnable reserve. Many candidates have given an assurance that they are going to work the next 16 days, and work hard. Do not let your competitors get the subscriptions in your locality pledged before you awake to this proposition.

More votes will be issued the next two weeks undoubtedly than all the previous weeks put together. And why not? This special vote offer is the best incentive yet, and those who do not take advantage of it can readily see that they will lose the opportunity of the race.

This is positively the last offer or change in the voting schedule that will be made during the contest. Subscriptions will never be worth more than they are today. Bring in your subscriptions at once, and get the ballots to which you are entitled and avoid the hurry and rush of the closing days.

"Future" Orders.

Don't give up getting a party as a subscriber, simply because he is already taking some other paper. Take which he has paid in advance to begin at the expiration of the other paper, and when that time arrives, he will begin to receive The Gazette.

Evening Orders.

For the benefit of those who cannot call during business hours this office and contest department will be open every evening until 8 o'clock.

BAD DREAMS
Caused by Coffee.

"I have been a coffee drinker, more or less, ever since I can remember, and until a few months ago I became more and more nervous and irritable, and finally I could not sleep at night for I was horribly disturbed by dreams of all sorts and a species of distressing nightmare.

"Finally, after hearing the experience of numbers of friends who had quit coffee and were drinking Postum, and learning of the great benefits they had derived, I concluded coffee must be the cause of my trouble, so I got some Postum and had it made strictly according to directions.

"I was astonished at the flavor and taste. I entirely took the place of coffee, and to my very great satisfaction, I began to sleep peacefully and sweetly. My nerves improved, and I wish I could wear every man, woman and child from the wholesome

CHAPTER XXX. THE TWO WOLVES.

TWO days and nights crept slowly into the past, and now the white people of the chateau had come to the eve of their last day's stay on the island of Japan. The anniversary of the death of Tawell Skaggs, the six months set aside by the testator as sufficient for all the requirements of Cyph were to come to an inglorious end at 7 o'clock on March 20. According to the will, if Agnes Lathrop and Robert Browne were not married to each other before the close of that day all of their rights in the estate were lost to them.

Tomorrow would be the last day of residence required. But, ah, what was it to be the last that they were to spend in the world forsaken land?

No later than that morning a steamer—a small Dutch freighter—had come to a stop off the harbor, but it turned tail and fled within an hour. No one came ashore. The malcontent tug went out and turned back the landing party which was ready to leave the ship's side. The watchers in the chateau knew what it was that the tug's captain shouted through his trumpet at a safe distance from the steamer. The black and yellow flags at the end of the company's pier lent color to a gruesome story. The hopeless look deepened in the eyes of the watchers.

Hollingsworth Chase alone maintained a stubborn air of confidence and unconcern. "Don't be downhearted, Howies," he said to the mooping British agent. "You'll soon be managing the bank again and patronizing the American bar with the same old regularity."

There had been several vicious assaults upon the gates by the infuriated islanders during the day following the rescue of the helms. Some powerful influence suddenly exerted itself to restore them to a state of calmness. They withdrew to the town, apparently defeated. The cause was obvious—Anissa had convinced them that death already was lifting his hand to blot out the lives of those who opposed them.

Bobby Browne was accomplishing prodigies in the laboratory. He seldom was seen outside the distilling room. His assiduity was marked, if not commented upon. Hour after hour he stood watch over the water that went up in vapor and returned to the crystal liquid that was more precious than rubies and sapphires.

Drusilla kept close to his side during these operations. She seemed afraid or ashamed to join the others. She avoided Lady Deppingham as completely as possible. Her effort to be friendly when they were thrown together was almost pitiable.

As for Lady Agnes, who seemed struck by an unconquerable lassitude. The spirits that had controlled her voice, her look, her movements, were sadly missing. More than once Geneva had caught her watching Deppingham with eyes that spoke volumes, though they were mute and watchful.

From time to time the sentinels brought to Lord Deppingham and Chase notices that had been tossed over the walls by the emissaries of Anissa. They were written by the leader himself and in every instance expressed deepest sympathy for the plague-ridden chateau.

"There's a paucity of real news in these gentle messages that annoys me," Chase said after reading aloud the last of the epistles to the princess and the Deppinghams. "I rejoice in my heart that he isn't aware of the true state of affairs. He doesn't appreciate the real calamity that confronts us. The plague? Poison? More likely. If he only knew that I am now smoking my last—the last—cigarette on the place!"

"I believe you would die more certainly from lack of cigarettes than from an overabundance of poison," said Geneva. She was thinking of the stock she had hoarded up for him in her dressing table drawer, under lock and key.

"I say, Chase, can't you just see Anissa's face when he learns that we've been drinking the water all along and haven't passed away?" cried Deppingham.

"And to think, Mr. Chase, we once called you 'the enemy,'" said Lady Agnes in a low, dreamy voice.

"I appear to have outlived my usefulness in that respect," he said. He tossed the stub of his cigarette over the balcony rail. "Goodbye!" he said, with melancholy emphasis. Then he bent an inquiring look upon the face of the princess.

"Yes," she said, as if he had asked the question aloud. "You shall have three a day, that's all."

"You'll leave the entire fortune to me when you sail away, I trust," he said. "The Deppinghams were puzzled."

"But you also will be sailing away," she argued.

"I? You forget that I have had no orders to return. Sir John expects me to stay. At least, so I've heard in a roundabout way."

"You don't mean to say, Chase, that you'll stay on this damned island if the chance comes to get away?" demanded Lord Deppingham earnestly. The two women were looking at him in amazement.

"Why not? I'm an ally, not a deserter."

"You are a madman!" cried Lady Agnes. "Stay here? They would kill you in a jiffy! Absurd!"

"Not after they've had another good long look at my warships, Lady Deppingham," he replied, with a most reassuring smile. "I think I'll take a stroll along the wall before turning in."

He arose and lazily started to go indoors. The princess called to him, and he paused.

"Wait," she said, coming up to him. They walked down the hallway together. "I will run upstairs and unlock the treasure chest. I do not trust even my maid. You shall have two tonight. No more."

"You've really saved them for me," he quivered, a note of eagerness in his voice. "All these days?"

"I have been your miser," she said lightly and then ran up the stairs.

He looked after her until she disappeared at the top with a quick, shy glance over her shoulder. An expression of utter dejection came into his face. A haggard look replaced the buoyant smile.

"God, how I love her—how I love her!" he groaned, half aloud.

She was coming down the stairs now, eager, flushed, more ashamed than she would have had him know. Without a word she placed the two cigarettes in his outstretched palm. Her eyes were shining.

In silence he clasped her hand and led her unresisting through the window and out upon the broad gallery. She was returning the fervid pressure of his fingers, warm and electric. They crossed slowly to the rail. Two chairs stood close together. They sat down side by side. The power of speech seemed to have left them altogether.

He held the two cigarettes on the broad stone rail. She followed the movement with perturbed eyes and then leaned forward and placed her elbows on the rail.

"If the ship should come tomorrow you would go out of my life—you would go away and leave me here," he began hoarsely.

"No, no," she cried, turning upon him suddenly. "You could not stay here. You shall not!"

"But, dearest love, I am bound to stay. I cannot go. And, God help me, I want to stay. If I could go into your world and take you into myself forever—if you will tell me now that some day you may forget your world and come to live in mine—then, ah, then, it would be different! But without you I have no choice of abiding place—here as well as anywhere."

She put her hands over her eyes. "I cannot bear the thought of—of leaving you behind—of leaving you here to die at the hands of those beasts down there. Hollingsworth, I implore you—come! If the opportunity comes—and it will, I know—you will leave the island with the rest of us!"

"Not unless I am commanded to do so by the man who sent me here to serve these beasts, as you call them."

He leaned over and took her hand in his. "You do love me?"

"You know I do—yes, yes!" she cried from her heart, keeping her face resolutely turned away from him. "I am sick with love for you. Why should I deny the thing that speaks so loudly for itself—my heart! Listen! Can you not hear it beating? It is hurting me—yes, it is hurting me!"

He trembled at this exhibition of repressed, unchecked passion, and yet he did not clasp her in his arms.

"Will you come into my world, Geneva?" he whispered. "All my life would be spent in guarding the love you would give to me—all my life given to making you love me more and more until there will be no other world for you to think of."

"I wish that I had not been born," she sobbed. "I cannot, dearest—I cannot change the laws of fate. I am fated—I am doomed to live forever in the dreary world of my fathers. But how can I give you up? How can I give you out of my life?"

"You do not love Prince Karl?"

"How can you ask?" she cried fiercely. "Am I not loving you with all my heart and soul?"

"And you would leave me behind if the ship should come?" he persisted, with cruel insistence. "You will go back and marry that—him? Loving me, you will marry him?" Her head dropped upon her arm. He turned cold as death. "God help and God pity you, my love, I never knew before what your little world means to you. I give you up to it. I crawl back into the one you look down upon with scorn. I shall not again ask you to descend to the world where love lies."

Her hand lay limp in his. They stared blankly out into the night, and no word was spoken.

The minutes became an hour, and yet they sat there with set faces, burning hearts, unseeing eyes.

Below them in the shadows Bobby Browne was pacing the embankment, his wife drawn close to his side. Three men, Brett, Saunders and Howies, were smoking their pipes on the edge of the terrace. Their words came up to the two in the gallery.

"If I have to die tomorrow," Saunders, the bridegroom, was saying, with real feeling in his voice, "I should say with all my heart that my life has been less than a week long. The rest of it was nothing. I never was happy before, and happiness is everything!"

DO YOU KNOW CIRCULATION?

When Harvey told the world of his discovery of the circulation of the blood in the human body, but two doctors over forty years of age accepted the truth.

There are some men under forty, and some over forty (not many) who don't realize that without circulation a publication can no more nourish its advertisers than can stagnant blood nourish the human machine.

The finest publication in the world could not accomplish anything without readers. Circulation is the measure of value.

Without circulation advertising won't pay—IT CANNOT.

We have a thousand reasons why we ought to get your advertising, but we won't get it until we furnish these reasons to you. We must reach you.

You are one of a circulation of 4500.

The Daily Gazette reaches practically every home in Janesville and 1500 farmers all within the county.

We reach these people every day—the same people that you are anxious to do business with. You make your announcement, we put it into no homes. If you have a good proposition to offer the people, or good goods to sell, they will be interested. If you haven't you have no right in business.

The cost? Well, it varies according to the number of insertions or number of inches used within a year. On a 1000-inch contract we charge 12 1/2¢ per inch. That is 2 7/10¢ per inch to reach 1000 people.

Now here are the two points:

The Gazette has an immense circulation which it makes known every day.

It gives most circulation for the least money.

Advertising depends on the circulation for its results. 10000 advertisements will do more good than 400.

The Gazette reaches more people than all other papers in Janesville combined.

Other Uses of Cloves.

Sprinkled among furs and woollens, and under carpets and rugs, cloves will be found as effective, if not superior, to the disinfecting moth preparations. And if the housekeeper who superintends the canning of her fruit will put a quarter teaspoonful of whole cloves on top of the tin cloth which many wisely place over the hot fruit before putting on the lid, she will not be annoyed with the molding of her fruit.—National Magazine.

All Have Some Gift.

The weakest among us have a gift, however seemingly trivial, which is peculiar to him and which, worthily used, will be a gift also to his race forever.—Ruskin.

Start the Day Right

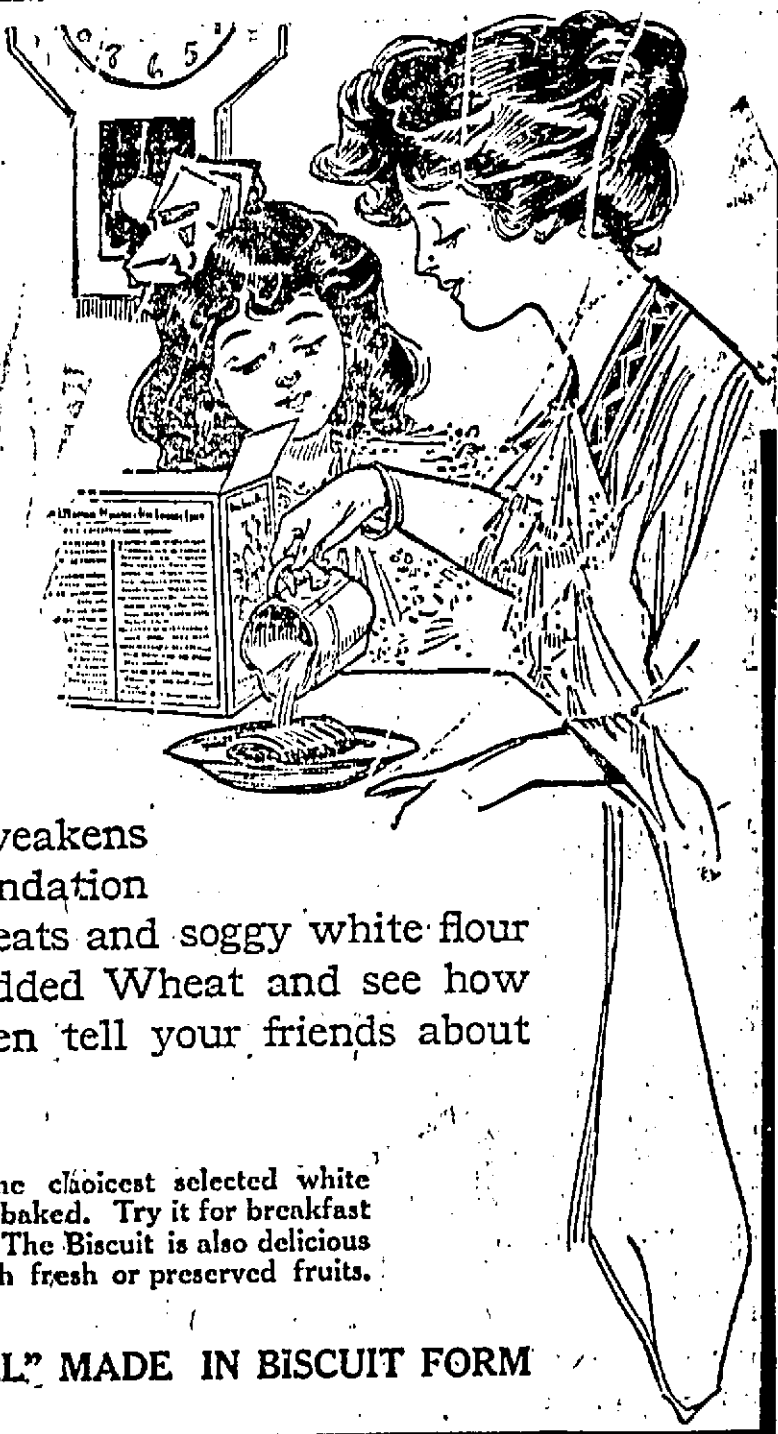

and you will be right.
Start it by eating

Shredded Wheat Biscuit

with hot milk or cream and a little fruit. If you eat more than the stomach needs you are wasting both money and strength. Overtaxing the stomach impairs digestion, weakens brain power and lays the foundation for disease. Cut out heavy meats and soggy white flour pastries for ten days, eat Shredded Wheat and see how much better you will feel—then tell your friends about it. Your grocer sells it.

Shredded Wheat is made of the choicest selected white wheat, cleaned, steam-cooked and baked. Try it for breakfast to-morrow with milk or cream. The Biscuit is also delicious for any meal in combination with fresh or preserved fruits.
